LOGLINE

In a small town in Northern California, a young, tight-knit group of friends fall in and out of love over the course of one intoxicating, music-filled summer night.

SYNOPSIS

It's the last days of summer. Best friends Seth and Jameson are getting ready to perform—and party—at local rock venue The Alamo. But before the night begins, both young men come face-to-face with serious reality checks: Seth receives life-changing news from his girlfriend Mel, and Jameson has to choose between his on-again-off-again girlfriend Corin and a new girl he's just met, the outspoken Harmony.

At the show, Seth and Jameson's friends are too caught up in their own lives to be much help: young rocker Taylor romances his new crush Dana, and awkward Jack "Rabbit" avoids his childhood friend Lexi after learning what she did at her sister's wedding. These intertwining friend-dramas, fueled by a lot of drinking, unfold against a backdrop of live music performed by the best bands in town.

By the end of the night, these young men and women are confronted with a series of fast-approaching life decisions that will either leave them stuck in the comfort of adolescence, or catapult them into adulthood.

DIRECTOR'S STATEMENT

Summer Night is a coming-of-age film about people in their early 20's attempting to navigate the complicated waters of love and relationships, while simultaneously coming to terms with their artistic ambitions in the face of the cold, harsh realities of adulthood.

It is about learning the value of sacrifice, compassion, forgiveness, and understanding. It is about learning to love yourself and the people around you for who they are, not who you wish them to be. It is about struggle, personal growth, ambition, acceptance, and above all — friendship.

Summer Night is a farewell letter to the hedonistic indulgence of youth, and an ushering in of personal fortitude, dignity, maturity, and the experience of unconditional love.
